Change to Political Science Program Area F Course Requirements

Current Political Science Program Area F Course Requirements

The EGSC Catalog says students earning associate of arts degrees in Political Science must complete 18 credit hours of courses in the Political Science Program's Area F (EGSC Catalog 68). There are 9 credit hours of required courses in area F. Political Science majors must complete all the following courses: POLS 2101 Introduction to Political Science, POLS 2301 Introduction to Comparative Politics, and POLS 2401 Global Issues. The remaining 9 credit hours are guided electives. Political Science majors may select any three of the following courses: MATH 1401 Elementary Statistics, ECON 2105 Principles of Macroeconomics, ECON 2106 Principles of Microeconomics, HIST 2111 US History to 1865, HIST 2112 US History since 1865, and SOCI 1160 Social Problems.

Change to Political Science Program Area F Course Requirements

The number of credit hours of required courses in area F should decrease from 9 to 6 and POLS 2101 Introduction to Political Science should be removed from the list of required courses and added to the list of guided electives. Only the following should be required courses: POLS 2301 Introduction to Comparative Politics and POLS 2401 Global Issues. The number of guided electives should increase from 9 to 12. Political Science majors should select any three of the following courses: POLS 2101 Introduction to Political Science, MATH 1401 Elementary Statistics, ECON 2105 Principles of Macroeconomics, ECON 2106 Principles of Microeconomics, HIST 2111 US History to 1865, HIST 2112 US History since 1865, and SOCI 1160 Social Problems.

Justification for Change to Political Science Program Area F Course Requirements

POLS 2101 Introduction to Political Science is a Political Science Area F required course. However, it rarely has high enough enrollment to justify offering it. Not offering POLS 2101 Introduction to Political Science due to low enrollment creates several undesirable alternatives: (1) students majoring in Political Science delaying graduation, (2) political science faculty teaching it as an independent study, and (3) students majoring in Political Science asking the Dean of Humanities and Social Sciences for an exception to the Political Science Area F course requirements. Changing POLS 2101 Introduction to Political Science from a Political Science Area F required course to a Political Science Area F guided elective solves this problem. Students majoring in Political Science could fulfill the Political Science Program Area F requirements without taking POLS 2101 Introduction to Political Science. If POLS 2101 Introduction to Political Science could not be offered due to insufficient enrollment, there would be no need for Political Science majors to delay graduation, Political Science faculty to offer it as a guided elective, or for Political Science majors to seek exceptions to the Political Science Area F course requirements.
