Types of Gifts

Annual Fund
The annual fund consists of designated and undesignated gifts that support the operating expenses of the foundation. This includes scholarships and other items of institutional support.

Planned Giving
Planned gifts can result in immediate or future income for the Foundation while the donor, or others, retain income and/or access to the assets used to fund the gift. Because of current or future charitable benefits, a number of state and/or federal income tax, capital gains, estate and gift benefits are associated with this type of giving.

Major Gifts
A major gift is a gift to the foundation for any purpose in an amount of $10,000 or more.

Bequests
A bequest is a gift made for a future date. For example, a donor may make a gift to the foundation with an insurance policy for which the proceeds are to be paid to the foundation at the death of the donor.
